THAW NOW PLANNING TRIP TO FAIR

By L. V. B. RUCKER.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 12.—The end of Harry K. Thaw's sanity trial was in sight today when court reconvened. At the conclusion of the reading of the testimony of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw at Thaw's trial for the murder of Stanford White the State planned to call its last important witnesses, the alienists who have testified at previous trials against Thaw and have been watching him closely during the present hearing.

The alienists' examination is expected to consume many hours, but night sessions will be held, beginning tonight, and the case probably will go to the jury Wednesday.

LISTENS UNCONCERNED.

The crowds of last week were not in evidence this morning, and there were barely a dozen women in the court room when Deputy Attorney-General Becker and Abel L. Smith resumed the reading of the testimony of Evelyn Thaw at the White Plains hearing. Thaw listened unconcerned, and when court recessed for five minutes he went into the corridors to smoke a cigar.

"You can see now," he said, "why the State excused Mrs. Evelyn Thaw. Her testimony would have damaged its case." Mr. Cook in his opening address said he would clear the name of Stanford White. Mrs. Thaw would have told the same story Mr. Becker is reading. That would not have helped to clear White, would it?"

Thaw reiterated his belief that he would be free in a few days, and repeated that he was planning to go to San Francisco.

HOPES TO BUY AUTO.

"If my lawyers leave me any money," he said, "I shall buy a car and go to the exposition that way. My mother has chanced her mind and will not go. If I go free, as I have every reason to hope, I shall spend a few days in Pittsburgh and then start for California by automobile."

After recess Justice Fitzgerald again read the "riot act" to the newspapers. The judge said that he had been quoted as saying that Thaw answered a question "Fully and surely." "I never said that," said the judge. "I said he answered a question 'fully.' The newspapers will have to stop misrepresenting the case. I have expressed no opinion whatever about the sanity or insanity of Thaw."

It is understood that Germany would permit the vessels to operate under the American flag without compensation and with neutral crews.

The condition of tobacco crop on July 1 was above the average. The cigar tobacco acreage shows a decrease of less than one per cent. compared with last year, but an increase of 9.3 in the chewing, smoking, snuff and export types is shown.

Al Jennings Is Robbed of $1 by Train Bandits

By International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, July 12—Several sheriff posses from Pomona, Cal., today were searching the country road about Ganesha Junction for two bandits who held up a Pacific electric car a mile west of Pomona late last night, robbed fifty passengers and escaped with several hundred dollars in cash. Latest reports stated that the officers had found no trace of the robbers.

One of the passengers on the car when the bandits ordered "Hands up" was Al Jennings, once a famous bandit himself. Jennings is now conducting evangelistic meetings in South California. His hands went up with those of the other passengers. Jennings had been preaching at Pomona last night and his evening collection was tied in a handkerchief. He dropped a coin-laden satchel to the floor when the bandits entered and all they got from him was a single $1 bill.

MRS. EATON ALLOWED $4,000

Mrs. Ella Phinney Bartlett Eaton, second wife of Charles S. Eaton, proprietor of Thompson's Spa, today scored a preliminary victory in the domestic legal tangle growing out of Mr. Eaton's libel, brought against her for divorce for alleged cruel and abusive treatment.

Mrs. Eaton petitioned the Superior Court for $10,000 to pay for the rounding up of witnesses in her behalf from all parts of the country. Judge McLaughlin allowed her $4,000 for this purpose. Mrs. Eaton has summoned between seventy and eighty relatives and acquaintances to defend her at the trial, which is to take place in Salem next month.

Because of Mr. Eaton's sensational charges and the prominence of the parties the trial promises to be breezy. In his reply to interrogatories filed at the Essex Superior Court, Mr. Eaton, who is at present ill at his beautiful Summer home at Marblehead . . eck, complained that:

HUSBAND'S ALLEGATIONS.

"Mrs. Eaton's ridicule of my business, in the success of which I felt reasonable pride, was a source of annoyance and humiliation.

"My own expenditures for living and gifts for Mrs. Eaton were brought up to about $80,000 annually.

"In May, 1911, she struck me in the face and broke my glasses. Her nagging conversation lasted all night.

"While playing golf she said to the caddy and her brother-in-law, 'Don't talk. It makes the old fool nervous.'

"She would nag and scold me angrily.

"When I was sick she forced me to sleep on a porch out of doors.

"She was jealous of my sons.

"As the result of her speech I frequently could not refrain from tears."

RIVAL ATTORNEYS IN CASE.

Then Mrs. Eaton filed interrogatories of her own to be asked important witnesses, dealing with Mr. Eaton's alleged "irritability," and asks Robert D. Farquhar of Los Angeles if he didn't hear Mr. Eaton say "he adored the ground Mrs. Eaton walked on."

Mrs. Eaton has engaged Joseph G. Choate, an old rival of Sherman L. Whipple, counsel for her husband. Mr. Choate told the court Mrs. Eaton wanted some of the trial allowance money to pay physicians to examine her husband.

PRESIDENT STANDS FIRM

WASHINGTON, July 12.—In the forthcoming United States note to Germany, according to high State officials, President Wilson will seek to impress on the Kaiser the serious consequences of any further violation of American rights as defined in the note already sent to Berlin.

It is considered here that Germany has evaded the American demand for a disavowal of intent to kill Americans in the Lusitania horror. It is authoritatively stated that the United States will not surrender any of its rights.

It is also declared the German proposal to guarantee immunity to American ships, under an arrangement to be agreed upon by the naval authorities of the two countries concerning the marking of ships, will be rejected.

Count Von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, plans to call on Secretary Lansing tomorrow or Wednesday to learn if he can be of service in the situation.

Secretary of State Lansing today stated that the question as to whether he should go to Cornish, N. H., to confer with the President had not yet been decided. Mr. Lansing said he had discussed the matter with Private Secretary Tumulty, but had not directly communicated with the President. He said he might possibly go to Cornish, or he might wait for his conference with the President until the latter's return to Washington.

This means that the new note to Germany may be delayed until next week.

A secret chapter of the diplomatic negotiations between Germany and the United States was disclosed today.

After the President's first note to Germany on the Lusitania case, which seemed to demand the absolute cessation of the latter's submarine warfare, Germany indicated to the State Department that on a certain condition she would entirely discontinue the operations of her submarines against merchantmen for two or three weeks.

The condition was that the United States employ the interim in sounding Great Britain on what she was willing to do to modify her blockade of Germany, particularly as to the trade in food stuffs with the United States.

REJECTED SUGGESTION.

The State Department rejected the proposition. Secretary Bryan informed Germany informally this government could not look with favor on any suggestion that carried with it a condition that the United States obtain concessions from Great Britain.

Secretary Bryan gave as his reasons the probability that Great Britain would reply that the United States was acting in behalf of Germany, and this would weaken the position of the United States in any negotiations which might follow independently, with Great Britain.

On receipt of this information Germany refrained from making the proposal in a formal manner and nothing was done along that line.

It is to be understood from the German view as it is known here, that Germany is probably willing to repeat its suggestion any time this government feels disposed to accept it.

Certainly Germany has indicated to the State Department informally, entirely apart from its formal notes

PATHETIC NOTE TO BRIDE MARKED DRESSER SUICIDE

Mrs. Daniel LeRoy Dresser, artist bride of clubman who committed suicide.

NEW YORK, July 12.—A pathetic note of farewell to his bride was found in the pocket of Daniel Le Roy Dresser, the Newport club and society man, became known today when his sister-in-law told of his having penned a tender love letter to his bride half an hour before he took his life.

"It is the tenderest letter I ever read," declared Mrs. Albert Sterner, sister of Dresser's bride. Mrs. Marcia Walther Dresser, who was married to the suicide clubman just a little over six months ago.

In the letter Dresser told his bride that he was at the "parting of the ways," and did not know which way to turn, and though he did not speak of suicide, he did write her that his financial misfortunes had become unbearable.

While Mrs. Sterner was telling of the letter the widowed bride was in the next room sobbing.

Mrs. Dresser up to the time of her marriage was an artist and pianist. The wedding made her the sister-in-law of Mrs. George W. Vanderbilt, Mrs. John Nicholas Brown of Newport, Mrs. George Granville Merrill of Stockbridge, and Viscountess Alnain D'Oamoy of Paris.

"We knew Mr. Dresser for years," said Mrs. Sterner. "He was much in love with my sister. I used to tell them they acted silly in public.

"He did not tell his wife in the letter that he contemplated ending his life, but that thought could be read between the lines. It was the culmination of a series of financial reverses that drove him to it. He had built great hopes on a new business venture which received an unexpected setback Saturday morning. He simply told his wife that his misfortunes had become unbearable, that he was at the parting of the ways and did not know which way to turn.

"I think, too, that his love for his

FEAR FOR SHIPS IN BOMB PLOT

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 12.—Fears for the British steamers Howth Head and Baron Napier were increased today when a dispatch from Key West reported that neither vessel had been sighted. Both left New Orleans on July with cargoes for the allies. If bombs were placed on the vessels, as indicated in the letter received by a local newspaper, they might have been timed to explode shortly after the ships sailed.

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Special precautions are being taken by the District of Columbia police department to guard the embassies of all of the European powers, it was announced today by Major R. W. Pullman, superintendent of police. A special patrol has been established during the past week for the embassies of the allies and the Teuton governments which will be indefinitely continued.

The extraordinary precautions were decided upon immediately after the explosion of a bomb in the Capitol and the attack by Frank Holt (Erich Muenter) upon J. P. Morgan, when the British ambassador, Cecil Spring-Rice, was Mr. Morgan's guest.

Major Pullman today stated special attention at all times was given the embassies by the police of the national capital, but that at this time the police were taking unusual precautions.

Following the receipt by a New Orleans newspaper of a letter from a man who styles himself as Holt's parents, in which he threatens the lives of J. P. Morgan and Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, the British ambassador, as well as the destruction of "ocean, perhaps two," ships laden with supplies for the allies, several arrests are expected.

Already Hans Halle, who was arrested in New Orleans last December for having a bomb he confessed he had constructed to send to New York to be put on a French line vessel, has been rearrested in New Orleans.

It was stated today Halle, who has been recently acquitted on a charge of conspiring to ship explosives on an interstate carrier, would be held until the Baron Napier and Howth Head, British steamers which sailed from New Orleans with mules for the allies, are reported safe.

NEW DEATH AND BOMB THREATS MADE BY 'MUENTER'S PARTNER'

From the naval wireless station at Arlington, Va., warnings have been flashed to the Howth Head and Baron Napier, now on the high seas, to look out for bombs concealed in their holds.

United States secret service agents and private detectives are reported to have unearthed in New York a great plot to place bombs aboard ships aiding the allies in a campaign to supplement the German submarine warfare.

This plot is said to be backed by wealthy men, whose identity has become known, together with that of the actual individuals who placed the nine bombs found in the sugar cargo of the Kirkcrwald, now unloading at Marseilles, and which failed to ignite.

The letter received by the New Orleans newspaper was signed "Pearce." It declared the writer intended by killing Morgan and Spring-Rice to finish the work of Erich Muenter, who committed suicide several days ago after wounding Mr. Morgan.

It warned persons who had friends or relatives aboard the British steamships Howth Head and Baron Napier, which sailed from New Orleans July 9 with mules for the British Army, to watch for reports from these vessels.

The writer declared that it was Muenter who warned passengers on board the Lusitania before that vessel sailed from New York that it would be dangerous to make a voyage on her. It also is declared that Muenter personally called on Charles Frohman and urged him not to take passage on the ship.

After announcing his intention to kill Mr. Morgan to avenge the death of Holt, the letter writer says:

SEARCH FOR "PEARCE."

In New Orleans scores of detectives today were searching the city in an effort to locate Pearce, while squads of British government agents and attaches of local shipping firms were examining all British vessels in port in an effort to ascertain whether bombs had been concealed in their cargoes.

In New York Police Commissioner Woods, Inspector Faurot and Captain Parker of the bomb squad will confer at headquarters today over the alleged conspiracy here for destroying munition-laden ships at sea.

The police will co-operate with private detective agencies employed by the steamship lines, and will ask these for all the information they have.

From the reports of detectives employed by them, ship owners are strongly of the opinion that the bombs were got on board either through bribing employes or by "planting" men of their own in the effects of the commanders, probably the latter.

The Howth Head is on her way today to Dublin and Belfast. The Baron Napier is bound for Avonmouth. Frantic efforts are being made to reach the steamers by radio, as it is not yet known whether or not they have picked up the messages already sent.

Secretary Daniels, as soon as he heard of the "Pearce" letter, ordered the wireless warning sent broadcast over the seas. He thinks he is not picked up directly by either of the two steamers, he may reach others who will relay it to them.

It is the opinion of naval officials that responses may be caught by some of the wireless stations along the Atlantic coast today.

TO KILL SPRING-RICE.

"Holt (Muenter) was my partner and I glory in the thought of his comradeship. We worked together ever since this cursed war began. Holt is gone, but I am here and I am going to carry on the work the two of us began. I am going to carry on the work with redoubled fury.

"The statement that Holt intended to wreck libraries and other such buildings is a lie. The Capitol is the only building that we planned to wreck, and we partly succeeded in our plan. But what we did plan and what I am going to carry out is the just idea to stop this country from contributing to the damnable, hellish, barbaric slaughter across the ocean.

"The British mule ships are daily leaving New Orleans laden with livestock for the service of Germany, just as ships laden with guns and ammunition to slaughter Germans are almost daily leaving New York. Therefore, this city furnishes a promising field for the work that lies before me.

"I may succeed in blowing up but one British ship leaving this port. I may succeed in destroying ten, but I am going to carry out this work, and whatever I achieve will be satisfactory to me. And then I will be ready for Morgan. And after I get through with Morgan, I will be ready to share my pal's fate; I consider it a glorious fate.

"And Sir Cecil Spring-Rice, Do you want to know whom Muenter worked after when he went to Glen Cove? Morgan? Partly. The real reason for going to Glen Cove was Sir Cecil Spring-Rice * * * * * We have trailed Spring-Rice two weeks, and we are going to get him yet.

WARNING FOR SHIPS.

"This country considers Muenter a barbarian, a crank. I knew him in Germany; I knew him in America. He destroyed property and took lives only, he knew what good would follow, never otherwise. He taught me his principles, his ideas, and as I said before, I glory in his leadership of the past. He stood ready to risk his own life to save other lives that he considered worthy.

"Why, at the time the Lusitania sailed on her fateful voyage, do you know who it was that warned Vanderbilt and the rest not to sail on her? It was Erich Muenter. He knew what was going to befall this British liner. He not only sent messages to a large number of people that he knew were going to sail on the ship, but he personally pleaded to Frohman not to make the voyage.

"Just as Muenter appealed to Frohman, Vanderbilt and the others not to sail on the Lusitania, so I now appeal to worthy Americans in this country not to sail on the British mule ships leaving this port. * * * Remember, I am Muenter's pupil and very, very seldom has Muenter failed. Muenter's methods are my methods. I am supplying with enough explosives to wreck this whole town. I have a program to follow: British ships, Morgan, Sir Cecil Spring-Rice and then, oblivion.

"Halle failed completely; Muenter succeeded partly; I am going to succeed completely. I am but one among millions, but I have Muenter's backing, and I have dynamite.

"If there be anyone among the readers of this that doubts these words, let him wait and watch; the early part of next week will witness the completion of Muenter's purpose—that is, the beginning of the completion. If you will look up the records you will discover the name of two of his majesty's ships that have just left port—perhaps never to return. One of them is called Howth Head, the other Baron ——. Have you relatives on either of these ships? If you have, I feel sorry for you, if you are an American. If you are a subject of his majesty, I congratulate myself. Watch the career of some of these mule ships.

(Signed) "PEARCE."

TO INSIST ON U. S. RIGHTS IN NEGOTIATIONS WITH GERMANY

on the Lusitania case, that she has no intention of making any concessions regarding her submarine warfare unless Great Britain at the same time accedes something in the matter of her blockade of Germany.

THE REAL REASON.

Among the few who know of the incident it has been conjectured one reason why the State Department did not accept the suggestion was because it "did not want to embarrass Great Britain." The view is that it would have been to the disadvantage of Great Britain to have it of record diplomatically that a proposition of such a character amounting almost to a move toward mediation had been made to her and that she had rejected it.

Those who hold this opinion hold that the proposition was to the credit of Germany.

Great Britain had held that her blockade of German ports and the strict terms of her Orders in Council were a "retaliation" against Germany's antecedent orders putting the food supplies of the empire under military control. To this Germany responded with her submarine warfare against England's commerce.

Germany's proposal, therefore, to suspend submarine operations for two or three weeks in order to seek an agreement which would benefit the United States as well as herself, was the most important sacrifice she could make, as the submarine was her most active and powerful arm of the service at sea.

The general difference between Germany and the United States therefore according to the best information obtainable may be expressed in this manner.

THE TWO VIEWS

Germany holds that the issues between the two countries growing out of her submarine warfare directly involve Great Britain to such an extent that no agreement can be reached that does not include concessions from Great Britain and therefore the United States must shape her course accordingly.

The United States holds, on the contrary, that the issues between this government and Germany and Great Britain are separate propositions and are to be treated independently of each other.

The course adopted by this government, therefore, is to attempt to reach an agreement with Germany regarding its treatment of American lives and property, and to endeavor to reach an agreement with Great Britain regarding its treatment of trade between this country and Germany, but in no way to involve the one problem with the other.

It can be stated that the German view as it has been communicated to State Department officials is in no way, so long as the war is proceeding as at present in which the United States can induce Germany to yield the rights of Americans to travel where they will on belligerents' as well as merchants' vessels and the other demands which this government has made, unless Great Britain relaxes the severity of her blockade.

Interesting information has been obtained here as to the German view of the course the administration should take, considering the nature of previous negotiations, to bring about a settlement of the problem confronting it. In this view there are two ways open to the President.

NOTES TO BOTH.

First—To write brief notes to Great Britain and Germany, informing Great Britain that this government is dissatisfied with her activities in interfering with American commerce and informing Germany that she is dissatisfied with the lack of protection given by her to American lives and property on the high seas, and adding that if satisfactory assurances are not forthcoming from both within a month Congress will be summoned and an embargo will be placed on all exports for a month.

Second—To bring about a secret, informal conference of diplomatic representatives of Germany and Great Britain at which the whole situation could be discussed. The merit of such a conference would lie largely in the lack of publicity. This method is adopted when matters are to be considered more from the standpoint of diplomacy than "from the point of view of public sentiment."

What the action of the American government will be is doubtful, largely in the sense that means of expressing the ideas and purposes of the United States have not yet been decided.

It was authoritatively indicated that obviously there would be no surrender of rights and no acceptance of the German proposal to guarantee immunity to American ships under arrangements to be agreed upon by the naval authorities of the two countries.

There is no intention from indications in official quarters, to force a situation, but in whatever policy is followed the American endeavor will be to place full responsibility on Germany for any subsequent rupture in friendly relations.

LONDON PRESS SAYS "IMPUDENT" AND "IDIOTIC" OF NOTE

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 12.—That abandonment by the United States of its demands upon Germany would cause a break in the friendship between England and America is the declaration made by the Evening Standard in an editorial today.

Other papers reiterate their caustic comment upon the German reply to President Wilson's note, declaring it as "impudent" and the concessions it offers as "idiotic."

The impression in British official circles is that the United States will carry on no more diplomatic correspondence with Germany over submarine warfare, but will stand by its demands and break off relations, if the Germans commit any act which the Washington government regards as violating them.

In its editorial conveying a veiled threat to America the Evening Standard says:

"The German note is too crude even to provoke disgust. Assurances are given after a fashion, but their acceptance would make America the vassal of Germany and politically her accomplice in murder. President Wilson, having first demanded security for Americans as their legal right, cannot accept it as a concession from the Germans without eating his own words. Should America now abandon her legal stand the cordiality of Anglo-American relations would be compromised for a century."

The Pall Mall Gazette says:

"The note is the most impudent document ever forwarded by one great power to another. If the argument is impudent and unconvincing, the German offer can only be described as idiotic. Germany now makes plain her intention of sinking all vessels save those to which she offers safe conduct."

The Westminster Gazette says:

"To the German people the note is a triumphant vindication of the submarine commander. There is no argument possible with a government which enters this plea or with a people which enthusiastically supports it. It is all a piece of the outrages in France and Belgium."

The Globe: "The note means that America must become an accessory before the fact in Germany's crimes or Americans will continue to be murdered by German agents. No sophistry can disguise the impudence of this demand."

The Star: "The German reply stands high in all records as a cynical piece of effrontery. Americans are doubtless aware that if one gives way to a blackmailer once one will have to submit many times. President Wilson, we do not doubt, will take such action as the interests and dignity of America demand."

TEUTONS CHECK CZAR'S ARMY IN POLAND

By FRANCIS LAVELLE MURRAY.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PETROGRAD, July 12.—Reinforced by troops hurriedly transferred from the Zlota, Lipa and Dniester River fronts in Galicia, the Austro-German army in the Lublin region of Poland has rallied after being driven back thirty-two miles by the Russians in five days of fighting.

The War Office admitted today that the offensive of the Czar's troops had been checked by a tremendous artillery fire and compelled to assume the defensive.

Though the Germanic retreat has apparently ended for the time being at least, the attacks made by the Austro-German infantry in their counter-offensive are all declared to have been repulsed.

It is apparent that the Germanic troops south of Lublin are again in touch with their supply b from which they had been separated by the rapid advance they made in the belief that the Russian forces were completely disorganized.

This tactical error is declared at the War Office to have cost the Austro-Germans more than 40,000 men, or a complete army corps.

While fighting continues in the Lublin district, indications are that the situation there is approaching a deadlock and interest has been temporarily transferred to the Bobr River front in Northern Poland, where the Germans, under Field Marshal von Hindenburg, are trying to invest Osowiec by crossing the river between that fortress and Lomza.

Unable to overcome the defensive of Osowiec with their artillery, the Germans have resorted to sapping operations in an attempt to blow up the outer fortifications. These were discovered by Russian aviators on Friday, and that night the Osowiec garrison, sortieing from three different forts, trapped the German engineering forces and bayoneted all of them in their tunnels.

I DON'T CARE, SAYS FORMER WIFE AS HEYE WEDS AGAIN

Mrs. Blanche A. W. Heye, former wife of Banker George G Heye of New York, and their daughter Agnes.

Boston friends of Mrs. Blanche A. W. Heye, formerly of Wellesley Hills, learned with interest today that George Gustav Heye, the New York millionaire banker whom she divorced two years ago, was again a benedict. His second wife was Mrs. Dorothea Page of New York and the wedding took place in Atlanta last Thursday, but news of it did not reach Boston until today.

When Heye's former wife was told of the marriage, she said:

"I don't care.

"I'm not at all interested. What he does or when he marries makes no difference to me."

Heye's Atlanta marriage was performed by Judge George L. Bell of the Fulton Superior Court after a marriage license had been obtained by Luther Rosser, counsel for Heye.

The couple for their honeymoon chose a trip into North Carolina to inspect Indian mounds in a hunt for relics, which is said to be a hobby popular with both the banker and his new bride. Their friends say that it was this mutual hobby that led to their romance and marriage. It is understood they first met when hunting for Indian relics.

The former Mrs. Heye was Miss Blanche Williams, daughter of Joseph Williams, a Boston business man who made his home at Wellesley Hills. She won her divorce August 2, 1913, and was awarded $15,000 a year alimony. Her two children, Agnes and Lawrence, receive $2,500 annually in monthly instalments. She has the custody of the children.

MEXICO CITY IN CARRANZA'S CONTROL

By ARTHUR CONSTANTINE.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

MEXICO CITY, July 12.—Carranza troops are in full control of the Mexican capital today. Order is being maintained by street patrols, while small squads are searching the city for any Zapata troops. The main Zapata forces are in full retreat, pursued by the larger part of the army of General Pablo Gonzales, the Carranza commander.

The outbreak of looting that was expected upon the flight of the Zapata forces failed to materialize.

General Carranza is expected here within a few days to take up the reins of government. Because of the victories won against Villa by General Obregon in the north, it is expected that the First Chief will make another bid for American recognition.

The flight of the Zapatistas began Friday night. They took away with them 132 cars or 80 per cent. of the entire rolling stock of the railroads. Thomas Hohler, the British charge d'affaires, is trying to secure the return of this stock, which will be required for the transportation of food supplies from the coast.

Consul General Arnold Shanklin, who has been in Vera Cruz most of the time since General Carranza took up his headquarters there, will handle American interests in the capital hereafter. Upon his departure they were taken over by the Brazilian Minister.

The loss of Mexico City by the Zapatistas is said to have disorganized the entire southern army. Several Zapata bands are reported to have headed for Xochimilco, to destroy the water plant supplying the city, and Carranza troops are pursuing and trying to surround them.

REPORT LA BASSEE SET ON FIRE BY BOMBARDMENT OF GERMANS

By JOHN C. FOSTER,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, July 12.—LaBassee, in Northern France, where the Germans have been able to maintain their positions despite furious attacks by the allies, is believed to be burning. An official eye witness account of British operations dated July 9 and issued by the government press bureau today, says that a conflagration has been visible at that part of the front.

The narrative also tells of artillerymen abandoning their guns in the West Flanders fighting and joining in charge against the German positions. The narrative follows:

"During the morning of July 5, the Germans bombarded and blew up a barricade protecting our line at the crossing of the Ypres-Routers railway. Twenty men rushed through the gap and endeavored to entrench themselves, but were at once driven back by bombing parties and the line held.

"About fifty infantrymen holding the hostile line north of the railway attempted to advance to the support of their comrades, but they were caught by our machine gun fire and dispersed. Around Hill No. 60, southeast of Ypres, the German trench mortars were very active.

CAPTURED TRENCHES.

"On Tuesday morning came our turn to attack in the quarter north of Ypres and east of the Ypres Canal. It was considered desirable to wrest from the enemy a length of their front line.

"At 6:30 a. m., after a short bombardment, our guns being greatly augmented by French artillery, our infantry assaulted and captured 700 yards.

"This work was done with very slight casualties. An interesting incident of the fight was the co-operation of some of our artillerymen in the attack. After doing great execution on the German defences at close range, the artillerymen, working a number of field guns, charged forward with the infantrymen. After our men had established themselves in a portion of the German lines, they were attacked by the German artillery and infantry.

"The fighting lasted all day, three counter attacks by the Germans being repulsed. The losses of the attacking were very severe, owing to the fire of trench mortars of the French which took the enemy upon the flank.

"By night the Germans had succeeded in regaining a small portion of the line they had lost. An immense number of hand grenades were thrown, which considerably increased our casualties, but the wounds of most of the men were slight.

"Wednesday, north of Ypres, the enemy answered our success by shelling the whole neighborhood intermittedly and attempting counter attacks which broke down. Opposite La Bassee, where a large conflagration was visible, several bombing parties were disposed of by our fire."

EDIZIONE ITALIANA
BOSTON AMERICAN

VOL. 1. BOSTON, 17 LUGLIO, 1915. NO. 17.

La lega balcanica si ricostituisce per gli sforzi dell'Italia.

Gorizia Cadra' fra 14 Giorni

ROMA, 11 luglio.—L'attacco aistematico delle truppe Italiane contro le colline dei Carso e contro le fortificazioni di Gorizia, produce degli effetti favorevolissimi agli Italiani. Così fortunate sono le operazioni degli Italiani che un alto ufficiale dello Stato Maggiore ha asserito che detta fortezza dovra' arrendersi in una o due settimane al piu'.

50,000 Morti Austriaci

Le perdite austriache a Gorizia ed a Plava sono state immense.

I rapporti moderati del Comando Austriaco ammettono che nei combattimenti sanno Plesono, gli Austriaci han perduto 50.000 uomini.

ROMA, 12 luglio.—I successi continui delle truppe Italiane contro gli Austriaci e il crescente dubbio che l'Italia dovra' essere interessata piu' di quanto non ai creda nel futuro dei Balcani, han prodotto o una grande influenza per rendere chiara la politica degli stati di quella penisola.

Nei circoli diplomatici oggi si dice che vi sono tutte le probabilita' che ci sia una conferenza tra i re di Rumania, Bulgaria e Grecia sara' tenuta ad Atene prima dell' apertura del Parlamento greco, colla presenza dei rappresentanti d'Italia e Serbia. Ciò indica che si faranno degli sforzi per ricostituire la lega balcanica. Bulgaria e la Grecia si guardano con sospetto per il possesso di Salonicco.

MONTE TOPANO CONQUISTATO.

Colla cattura di Monte Tofano, uno dei tre monti che formano il Vallata Cortina, gli Italiani sono padroni della vallata Travenanza. Gli Austriaci non possono piu' concentrarvi della truppe che intendevano attuare contro Cortina. Gli Alpini, per conquistare quei picchi inaccessibili, han fatto dei prodigi.

IL MEDUSA VENDICATO.

Secondo le informazioni avaute, i sottomarini Austriaci operano a gruppi. Un'ufficiale della corazzata Italiana Amalfi, affondata dagli Austriaci, asserisce che l'attacco, avvenuto in un cielo ara coperto di nebbia fittissima, fu effettuato da quattro sottomarini.

Torino, 11 luglio.—In seguito alle ricerche fatte dalla marina Italiana per rintracciare e trarre a galla il Medusa, silurato giorni fa, si e' scoperto che detto sottomarino non affondo' solo. Un altro sottomarino Austriaco giaceva al suo fianco. Da qui' si e' arguito che il Medusa e il sottomarino avversario, in uno scontro, si offesero a vicenda, ed ambo affondarono.

Vive Proteste Del Papa

Dal Vaticano saranno dati al mondo civile presto due importanti documenti. Uno diretto al Belgio, esprime la speranza che detto Stato possa risavere tutto quanto gli e' stato strappato.

L'altro ara' diretto ad un personaggio inglese, e conterra' una protesta per l'affondamento del Lusitania e per l'uso dei gas asfissianti.

ALTRI SUCCESSI NEL TRENTINO

Nel Trentino, due recenti attacchi sono riusciti. Gli Italiani han preso Malkan Sarta e Costabella, e che dominano la vallata di Terragnolo, e ciò' costituisce una nuova minaccia contro Roveretto.

Sul fronte Bresci-Trentino, gli Austriaci dimostrano dei segni di una spasmodica offensiva. I loro sforzi disperati per riprendere la posizione di Vallarsa Leno sono completamente falliti.

ITALIANS EXPECT FALL OF GORIZIA

ROME, July 12.—The systematic attack by the Italians in the Garso hills and against Gorizia fortifications is progressing with advantage gained daily.

So favorably is the operation proceeding that an officer holding an important position writes he would not be surprised if the fortress was compelled to surrender within a week or two.

The losses of the Austrians at Gorizia and Plava have been very heavy.

Moderate reports from Austrian sources admit that the battles and skirmishes along the Isonzo already have cost them more than 50,000 men. In a fresh advance in Trentino two notable successes have been recorded. A surprise attack which resulted in the capture of Malga Seria and Costa Bella, dominating the Terragnolo Valley, constitutes a new menace from the east along the banks of the River Leno to Rovereto, which is already threatened.

ITALY REVIVING BALKAN LEAGUE

By BRIXTON D'ALLAIRE,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

ROME, July 12.—Continued success of the Italian troops against the Austrians, and the growing belief that this country will be a power to be reckoned with in future Balkan affairs, are having a strong influence upon the shaping of policies by the Balkan nations.

It was reported in diplomatic circles here today that there was every possibility of a meeting of the Kings of Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece at Athens before the Greek Parliament convenes. Servia will be represented by the Crown Prince.

This meeting indicates that efforts are being made to revive the old Balkan league. Heretofore Bulgaria and Greece have eyed each other with suspicion, due to the Bulgarian aspirations to get Salonica.

Austrian submarines in the Adriatic Sea are operating in groups, according to information received here today. An officer of the Italian warship Amalfi, which was sunk last week, reports that the vessel was attacked in a thick fog by four undersea boats.

GERMANS MAKE GAIN AT SOUCHEZ

By FRANKLIN P. MERRICK,
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

PARIS, July 12.—German troops have won a victory at Souchez, but a general attack by the Kaiser's forces on the Woevre region has been repulsed at every point by the French, the War Office announced this afternoon. The official communique admits the loss of the Souchez cemetery after a sharp conflict, in which the Germans again made use of poisonous gases to open the way to victory.

After they had loosened the gas upon the French lines, the Germans made a fierce attack. This was repulsed at first, but the Germans renewed their assault and took the cemetery. The German defeat in the Woevre region is another setback for the army of Crown Prince Frederick William, which is striving to cut its way through the Verdun, both from the Argonne and Woevre.

ACTIVITY ALONG FRONT.

The text of the communique follows:

"There was great activity during the course of the night at different points on the front.

"In the sector of Arras, the enemy, having thrown a great number of projectiles containing asphyxiating gas, attempted about midnight an attack to the south of Souchez, which was repulsed. A second attack about 2 a. m. permitted him to occupy the cemetery and some parts of trenches immediately adjacent.

"A very sharp conflict with grenades is going on in the trenches to the southeast of Neuville St. Vaast, without appreciable gain on either side.

"On the plateau to the north of the Oise the bombardment being carried on by both sides is particularly violent in the region of Quennevieres and Nouvron.

"In the Argonne there was a battle with petards and mines, with interruptions on the part of our artillery.

REPULSED IN WOEVRE.

"In the Woevre the enemy is violently bombarding Fresnes-on-Woevre with shells of all calibres and attempting several attacks. One was near Bathe-en-Woevre, the other in the forest of Apremont at Vaux-Fery, and at Tete-a-Vache. He has been repulsed everywhere.

"In the Vosges the Germans blew up a mine near our positions to the southwest of Allerheuille. Immediately afterwards he launched a fierce attack with several companies. This was repulsed with heavy losses. We made a few prisoners."

15 Submarines Defend Dardanelles

Mitylene, via Athens, July 12.—Fifteen submarines are now being used by the Turks to defend the Dardanelles. They are stated on the Asiatic and European littorals as well as in the sea of Marmora.

136 Airships of Allies Are Teutons' Toll

BERLIN, July 12.—Up to June 2, the total number of allied aircraft shot down by the Teutons was 136.

Of these, the largest number, namely, 61, were lost by the French; the English lost 47. The Russians have fewer aeroplanes than their allies, hence their losses reached only 26.

While most of the aeroplanes were brought down by artillery machine-gun fire from the ground, almost one-fifth of the French losses resulted from battles in the air.

King George Honors 300 Heroes of War

By International News Service.

LONDON, July 12.—Buckingham Palace presented a warlike scene today when King George held the largest investiture of many years. The occasion was the presentation of the Victoria cross, to distinguished service order decorations and military crosses for valor on the battle field. More than 300 officers and men received the coveted rewards directly from the King's hands.

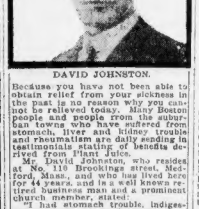
President Von Wedel Dead.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, July 12.—President von Wedel, of the Upper Chamber of the Prussian Diet, died today.

BUSINESS MAN'S RECOMMENDATION

David Johnston, of 110 Brookings Street, Endorses Plant Juice.

"The word 'can't' should be eliminated from everybody's vocabulary, for demonstrations are constantly coming to our notice of how the impossibilities of yesterday are the accepted facts of today," said the Plant Juice man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett drug store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he is introducing the herbal stomach remedy, Plant Juice.



DAVID JOHNSTON.

Because you have not been able to obtain relief from your sickness in the past is no reason why you cannot be relieved today. Many Boston people and people from the suburban towns who have suffered from stomach, liver and kidney trouble and rheumatism are daily sending in testimonials stating of benefits derived from Plant Juice.

Mr. David Johnston, who resides at No. 110 Brookings street, Medford, Mass., and who has lived there for 44 years, and is a well known retired business man and a prominent church member, stated:

"I had stomach trouble, indigestion and dyspepsia for some time. Sour food would ferment in my stomach, causing gases to form, and I was always more or less bloated. My stomach felt at times as though there was a fire in the pit of it. I had dizzy spells, headaches, nervous and restless, and could not sleep at night. I had tried different remedies, but nothing seemed to relieve me of my troubles. Sad read in the daily papers about Plant Juice, and the benefits which people were deriving from its use, and I decided to give it a trial. I have only taken one bottle of Plant Juice, and I can truthfully state that I have gotten more real benefit from it than anything I have ever taken. I can now eat any kind of food and it agrees with me. I do not have any more aches or pains, and I sleep fine at night. I can certainly indorse Plant Juice to anyone suffering from stomach trouble, as it is a fine tonic."

The Plant Juice man is at the Liggett drug store, corner of Washington and Avon streets, where he daily meets the local public and introduces and explains the merits of this remedy.—Advertisement.

The Time to Enter the American's Play Title Contest Is Right Now—Today

It May Mean $1,000 For You Or $800 or $500 CASH

Why Not Try For It?

The Contest Plan

Each day, for 85 consecutive days, a picture will be printed in the Daily and Sunday American. Contestants must supply each picture with a title, using the title of a play that shall be most fitting and appropriate, describing it most completely or fitting it most perfectly. The one supplying the greatest number of such "most fitting and appropriate" titles shall earn the first award, etc., etc. The one supplying the next greatest number shall earn the next award, etc.

There will be no limit of titles to buy. An official list of "Play Titles" from which contestants can select titles for the pictures appearing during the seven days beginning with each Sunday official list publication, and all titles selected for that week's seven pictures must be among those in and selected from this list. It is not necessary to buy this official list. Titles may be selected from any list. It may happen that the greatest number of titles will be found in the Contest Editor.

Contestants must supply the appropriate play title to each picture. When two or more title entries are equally "most fitting and appropriate" to any picture and superior to all others submitted, each of such equally fitting titles will be approved and credited as "most fitting and appropriate." In case of ties, the one who submits the least total number of titles, including those "most fitting and appropriate" and others, will earn the appropriate award. If there should still be a tie, the award shall be determined by the judges' decision of the superiority of the titles, taking into consideration originality, skill, judgment, as shown by the best understanding of the essential elements of the picture as typified by the title of the play.

No person can win more than one award and not more than one award will be awarded in any one family, household, or to persons residing at the same address, except non-relatives living at hotels, apartments or lodging houses. Fictitious names or addresses are not permitted, and their use will debar contestants. Collusion will bar contestants.

There will be no book of titles to buy. An official list of play titles will appear each week in the Sunday American during the contest. This list will be the standard for contestants to use in selecting the titles for the pictures appearing during the seven days beginning with each Sunday official list publication, and all titles selected for that week's seven pictures must be among those in and selected from this list. It is not necessary to buy this official list. Titles may be selected from any list. It may happen that the greatest number of titles will be found in the Contest Editor.

Contestants may be sent in on a coupon which will be printed in the American, Daily and Sunday, or a copy of it. Each answer must be attached to the picture or a copy of it. A picture (or a copy of it) must accompany each answer submitted.

Contestants must NOT send in their answers before the contest ends. Answers sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. Keep them from day to day and at the end of the contest arrange them in numerical order and send them in ALL TOGETHER AT ONE TIME.

All answers must be directed to the Boston American Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass., within the specified time limit, which will be announced later. The Boston American cannot be responsible for matter sent by mail and urges contestants who use the mail to send their packets by first-class registered mail. The Boston American will refuse answers on which postal charges are not prepaid.

As the awards will depend on the conscientious decision of the committee of judges, who will be prominent persons of the highest character, using their best judgment, as they would if deciding on the best story or poem in a literary contest, their decision will be final.

Entering the competition is an acceptance of all rules now or hereafter to be made by the Sunday American or the committee of judges and the decision of either on any point shall be absolutely final.

THE JUDGES

Three Official Judges Will Decide Winners

A Committee of Judges, widely known for their reputations and ability, will decide which titles are most fitting and appropriate after full examination of all submitted. Judgment and skill only will be decisive.

THE RULES

1. The Boston American presents a Play Title Competition which is a test of education, thought, skill and judgment.

2. The cash awards, 155 in number, will be to the value of $4,000.

3. Any resident of New England may compete except employes of the Boston American, their relatives and families.

4. It costs nothing to enter the contest.

5. Each day, for 85 consecutive days, a picture will be printed in the Daily and Sunday American. Contestants must supply each picture with a title, using the title of a play that shall be most fitting and appropriate, describing it most completely or fitting it most perfectly. The one supplying the greatest number of such "most fitting and appropriate" titles shall earn the first award. The one supplying the next greatest number shall earn the next award, etc.

6. The winners will be decided by a committee of three official judges who will be well known persons of recognized ability and character in the community and who will consider each title on its merits.

7. No contestant may submit more than five titles to each picture.

8. No titles will be adjudged as "most appropriate" until after the close of the contest. The "most fitting and appropriate" titles will be determined by the official judges from among all the titles submitted by all the contestants and only after all such titles submitted have been carefully examined. When two or more titles are equally "most fitting and appropriate," their adjudication will be so considered on all contestants' lists. For example, if there were six different Play Titles submitted for Picture No. 1, the judges will examine these six titles and decide which one submitted is "most fitting and appropriate" to Picture No. 1. If two or more titles submitted are equally "most fitting and appropriate" to all others submitted, each of such equally fitting titles will be approved and credited as "most fitting and appropriate." In case of ties, the one who submits the least total number of titles, including those "most fitting and appropriate" and others, will earn the appropriate award. If there should still be a tie, the award shall be determined by the judges' decision of the superiority of the titles, taking into consideration originality, skill, judgment, as shown by the best understanding of the essential elements of the picture as typified by the title of the play.

9. No person can win more than one award and not more than one award will be awarded in any one family, household, or to persons residing at the same address, except non-relatives living at hotels, apartments or lodging houses. Fictitious names or addresses are not permitted, and their use will debar contestants. Collusion will bar contestants.

10. There will be no book of titles to buy. An official list of play titles will appear each week in the Sunday American during the contest. This list will be the standard for contestants to use in selecting the titles for the pictures appearing during the seven days beginning with each Sunday official list publication, and all titles selected for that week's seven pictures must be among those in and selected from this list. It is not necessary to buy this official list. Titles may be selected from any list. It may happen that the greatest number of titles will be found in the Contest Editor.

11. Answers may be sent in on a coupon which will be printed in the American, Daily and Sunday, or a copy of it. Each answer must be attached to the picture or a copy of it. A picture (or a copy of it) must accompany each answer submitted.

13. All answers must be directed to the Boston American Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop square, Boston, Mass., within the specified time limit, which will be announced later. The Boston American cannot be responsible for matter sent by mail and urges contestants who use the mail to send their packets by first-class registered mail. The Boston American will refuse answers on which postal charges are not prepaid.

14. As the awards will depend on the conscientious decision of the committee of judges, who will be prominent persons of the highest character, using their best judgment, as they would if deciding on the best story or poem in a literary contest, their decision will be final.

15. Entering the competition is an acceptance of all rules now or hereafter to be made by the Sunday American or the committee of judges and the decision of either on any point shall be absolutely final.

PROBE FIRE ON BATTLESHIP ALABAMA

PHILADELPHIA, July 12.—An investigation was begun today of the fire which broke out near the magazines of the battleship Alabama while the ship was thronged with visitors here yesterday.

The Alabama is the flagship of Rear Admiral Helm, commander of the reserve fleet at League Island.

The fire was discovered under the forward turret of 13-inch guns and dangerously close to the magazines. Immediately the alarm gong began booming through the big craft, while the crew divided itself into two parts, one half fighting the flames and the other hustling the outsiders down the gang-plank.

Fortunately the fire was discovered before it had gained much headway. However, it took an hour of stiff work on the part of the sailors to subdue the flames, which at one time were so threatening that a squad of men were ordered to stand by and be ready to flood the magazines.

Get Ready for Big-Gun Practice on the Coast

Attention, Winthropites, Hullians and all other interested parties!

There's to be a booming of the big guns in forts down the harbor next Wednesday and Thursday, so be forewarned.

Open up all the windows.

Stabilize all your bric-a-brac.

Do the same with all china and glassware.

Keep cool and don't worry.

In other years big-gun practice at the forts has resulted in shattered windows and dishes. This brought numerous protests to the War Department at Washington. On Wednesday and Thursday the Coast Artillery Corps, M. V. M., now on its annual tour of duty at the forts, is to practice at heavy firing at Forts Warren, Andrews, which is on Peddock's Island, and Strong, which is on Long Island. The authorities are anxious that Summer colonists and others be warned.

APPLAUD PASTOR STRIKE PICKET

The Rev. Paul H. Blanshard, who was arrested and fined for doing picket duty with the strikers of the Suffolk Knitting Mills of East Boston, was tendered the full support of his congregation at the prayer meeting, which crowds of admirers turned into a strike meeting.

The young minister declared that he was proud that he had been arrested in a good cause. He admitted that he was a Socialist and boasted that he was worse than a Socialist. "I am worse than an anarchist. I am a Christian," he said, "and not one of those who believe that Christianity is deadly respectability."

The Rev. Blanshard is one of the pioneers in the movement to secure pledges from Americans to discountenance war even to the extent of refusing to take up arms in any cause.

He is Junior pastor of the Maverick Church in East Boston. In his sociological work he is earnestly supported by the pastor, A. P. Williams.

"A minister has as much right at a strike as at a prayer meeting," he said. "It is the duty of Christians to do away with injustice. The Suffolk Knitting Company is not paying living wages. When there was a reduction in the scanty wages, the employes went on strike, and strike-breakers are now filling their places.

JOHN A. MULLEN, ex-chief of the Boston fire department, whose friends say he died from a broken heart.

EX-CHIEF MULLEN DEAD OF GRIEF

Two of Boston's bravest and best veteran fire fighters are dead today.

John A. Mullen, who had wished to die since he was retired before his time, died of a broken heart at the Adams Nervine Hospital. Junior Deputy Chief Charles H. W. Pope, who's promotion at the time of Chief Mullen's retirement dragged him unwillingly from the Charlestown district which he knew and liked best, died early today after a brief illness. He had never become reconciled to his promotion.

That Chief Mullen—he is always "Chief" to the thousands who knew and admired him—lived so long since his retirement in January 1914, is due directly to the tireless efforts of Dr. Edwin B. Lane and Dr. Silas Partington.

Dr. Lane signed Chief Mullen's death certificate "heart failure." But he and those who remained faithful to the veteran fire chief know that John Mullen really died of a broken heart.

By grace of the Cardinal, the chief will be buried from the Gate of Heaven Church, Wednesday, his old parish, although his family lives now in Mattapan, at No. 87 Wellington Hill street.

Scarcely less known, certainly not less admired, was Chief Pope. For years and years he had watched over the safety of Charlestown where he had served as district chief until he knew every corner and doorway in the district. He was born in December, 1847, in Charlestown. He joined the department in 1868.

Reading Town Meeting.

Reading will have a special town meeting tonight to motorize the fire department and to appropriate for the new Carnegie library.

10,000 GARMENT WORKERS STRIKE

NEW YORK, July 12.—A strike which may tie up the garment making industry in New York city began here today when 10,000 pants makers were called out by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America. More than 700 shops are closed by the strike and the trouble may spread until 100,000 workers are involved.

A reorganization of working conditions is demanded. Sidney Hillman, president of the union, in discussing the case of the strike said: "Cut throat competition fostered by the manufacturers had cut the workers' wage down so far that a strike was our only choice.

"In the settlement of the trouble in 1913 we were given many promises, but since then the manufacturers have played one contracting tailor against another until the men who made $20 a week two years ago, make only $10 or $12 now."

If the strike spreads to the women's garment makers, 160,000 persons, mostly Jewish workers, would be made idle.

St. Patrick Was a Baptist, Dr. MacArthur Says

St. Patrick was a Baptist, according to Dr. Robert S. MacArthur. He explained this statement in his sermon at Tremont Temple.

"The Nun of the Kenmare," he said, "wrote the best life of St. Patrick. Why her work was published she showed it to the Pope, pointing out her confident belief that the Saint had been led into a pond and immersed. She even locates the pool. The Pope gave her a written endorsement of the book. I am convinced she was right, that St. Patrick was a firm believer in baptism, and a Baptist at heart."

Bus Drivers Protest Tax.

NEW BEDFORD, July 12.—Protest against the tax of $1, which the city levies on them, has been made by 162 jitney bus drivers here.

TWO STABBED AT WEDDING FEASTS

Two men were stabbed in affrays that attended Sunday weddings in Greater Boston.

In South Boston the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mikolonis at No. 36 West Sixth street ended in a fight. John T. Griffin, twenty-one, of No. 39 West Seventh street was stabbed and is in a precarious condition at the City Hospital.

An investigation followed and one man was arrested. The wounded man at the City Hospital was too weak to identify the prisoner.

In Framingham Tony Weininski, twenty-eight, of Waverley street, was stabbed at the wedding of Peter Blazis. It is alleged that Pierro Torhia, twenty-seven, of No. 95 Waverley street, was his assailant.

Weininski was sent to the local hospital, and the authorities say he may die as a result of the wound.

Former Premier May Die of His Wounds

Benjamin Franklin—"Father of American Diplomacy"

AMERICA has never produced a greater statesman than Franklin, who was revered by the people second only to Washington. He was a signer of both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States, and his wisdom made the latter a possibility. The great Lord Chatham pronounced him not only an honor to the Anglo-Saxon people, but to human nature. In every capitol of Europe he was a welcome guest, and he it was who induced France to lend us ships, men and money during the darkest days of the Revolution. Upon his death Congress ordered a general mourning of a month. In France it was decreed that all members of the national assembly should wear mourning for three days. So long as Americans treasure the Republic and Personal Liberty as the noblest of all human blessings, the fame of Franklin can never perish. Personally he was possessed of robust health; he was a well-shaped man, of a wise but merry nature; he had the head of a Greek philosopher, while his grace, his noble bearing and winning personality made him a conspicuous figure in any assemblage of great men. He was a moderate user all his lifetime of Old Madeira and barley-malt brews. It is safe to say that he toasted the New Republic with every great man of Europe and America. Franklin considered his work in building the Constitution his greatest service to posterity. Upon the self-evident declaration of the Constitution of the United States Anheuser-Busch 58 years ago launched their gigantic institution. To-day, wherever Americans go for health, or business, or pleasure, their famed brand BUDWEISER is there. Its popularity, due to its quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor, has daily grown in public favor until 7500 people are constantly employed to keep pace with the ever-increasing demand. When in St. Louis visit the home of BUDWEISER.

RED SOX BATTLE TIGERS AGAIN

DETROIT, July 12.—Manager Hugh Carrigan of the Red Sox can scarcely get away from nominating "Smoky Joe" Wood or "Dixie" Leonard for club work against the Tigers in today's getaway bill.

More than likely if Carrigan had started one of those starry slab artists yesterday the four runs pounded out by his artillery would have formed a buttress enough package to have netted the visitors a victory, and, if the combat had resulted in a triumph for Boston, the Red Sox, not the White Sox, would be setting the pace in this sizzling American League race.

Carrigan does not figure he pulled a "boner" in keeping Wood and Leonard, as well as Collins, in the dug-out yesterday and allowing Shore, one of his rookies, to start the big show.

Nor does "General Bill" figure he made a mistake when he sent Mays to Shore's rescue when the big fellow was being bombarded.

Carrigan has figured where Wood, Leonard and Collins are coming through for him, and now that he has practically headed off the White Sox, is out to be careful not to work "Smoky Joe" or "Dutch" out of turn, unless later on the occasion demands. Nor will the Red Sox pilot take another chance with Collins until he is absolutely certain the bulky Vermonter is at his best.

Detroit critics are unanimous in stating that the Red Sox are playing too hard for Ty Cobb this trip. The entire Boston band has locked its attack on the Peach in all three games, and, in their anxiety to secure his "goat," have pulled a lot of grass-cutting work.

Both Boston defeats, especially yesterday's, can be attributed to the Hose being overly anxious to "get" the Kings, and thus making blunders and "boners" which otherwise probably would not have happened.

Jennings plans taking a chance on young Boland today, but will also have "Bill" Steen in readiness. Likewise may Coveleskie be used in the windup if the batting becomes hot.

Speaker's failure to hit has also cost Boston heavily. In the three contests Tris has gone to bat thirteen times and poled out but one safety. It came in Friday's rear passage, so did not do the slightest bit of good.

The batting and fielding records of the two clubs in the series follow:

Valuable Prizes for 15-Mile Run

In the modified Marathon run of fifteen miles to be held by the Boston Caledonian Club, Saturday, August 2, the most valuable prizes ever given in this country will be awarded to the first six men to finish, exclusive of a special prize for the man making the fastest time. The run will be handicap and special dispensation has been granted by the New England A. A. U. to exceed the amateur limit for the valuation of prizes. Walter Scott of New York donates a $150 trophy for the first prize, Harry Lauder offering the second prize valued at $100. The time prize, which will cost $50, will be offered by James Gaffney, owner of the Boston Braves. For details of this race, athletes should address Thomas Grieve, 93 Kilby street, Boston, Mass.

Entry blanks are ready for the open handicap events as well as the open team race for the Walter Scott trophy. There will be but one professional event, the five-mile run.

Ness Ties Ty's Record.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 12.—Jack Ness, Oakland's first baseman in the Pacific Coast League, hit safely in both games yesterday with San Francisco, making forty consecutive games in which he has made at least one hit. This ties the world's record held by Ty Cobb.

"THE RABBIT'S" COLUMN

By Walter J. Naranville

SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

"I've seen just as many good players in the Federal League as in the National," said Lee Magee, manager of the Tip Tops, in admitting defeat recently. "But you've noticed we have played many one-sided games; many runs are made. I'll explain it to you. The Federal Leaguers are new; that is, they are not acquainted with the style of the opponents. Outfielders don't know my hitting stride; they don't know when I'm going to hit. I'll drop one in right center, and it will go for a hit, because the centre fielder is not playing properly for me. In the National League the outfielders move around for the different batters. They haven't seen this stage in the Federal League as yet."

* * *

When both Cheney and Lavender rounded into form, Dr. looked as if the Cubs had almost a clear field for the flag—and right there the team began to fall. Careful analysis of the Cub tumble shows an easily discernible reason. While the pitching staff was stronger than ever, there was an unusually painful lapse in the hitting of Good and Saier.

During the early part of the campaign Good was hitting round .370 and Saier, with an average around .320, was making a simply wonderful record of extra bases. He actually made few singles—nearly all his drives were doubles, triples and home runs. Recently Good has cooled off decidedly in his assaults upon the ball, and Saier is dropping, not only in the averages, but in his distance driving.

The slackening of heavy hitting by these two athletes is the real cause for the troubles of the Cubs, and it begins to look as if the brunt of the offensive work must now be taken up by Heinie Zimmerman.

Wiley Piatt, one of the most famous southpaw pitchers of the latter '90s, and in the early days of the American League, is now working on a farm at Union, O.

Piatt was one of the National League stars who could command almost any price for his services when the American League expanded in 1901. He signed a Washington contract and was later transferred to Chicago. Piatt made a great deal of money and should have been good for fifteen years in the major leagues had he taken care of himself. He was one of those care-free spenders who is now down and out.

The present day ball player is a more careful investor and is more particular about his condition. Piatt's end ending to what should have been a brilliant career is a good lesson for some of the present-day stars.

* * *

They say the Chicago Federal League club still keeps up its distribution of free season tickets at certain eateries, but the ante has been vastly raised—fifty passes are now given out each day instead of ten, and the number of such season cards, by this time, must be enormous. And yet—even the pro-Federal scribes have to grudgingly acknowledge this statement—the attendance at the Federal park, many a day, is less than the total number of free tickets that have been issued up to date!

* * *

The deal with the Portland, Oregon, club of the Pacific Coast League, by which Dave Bancroft went to the Phillies, has not panned out well for the former. Up to the present time the Phillies have had all the better of the transaction.

The terms of the deal were that the Phillies should give Shortstops Reed and Herbert Murphy and some cash for Bancroft. At the time that the transaction was concluded it was freely predicted that Dave would not last in Philadelphia and even his manager at Portland was quoted as saying that Bancroft would not stick in last company.

* * *

But Dave has fooled all of the prophets. He has made good not only in the field, but also at bat. Indeed, Dave is held in such high regard that it is not believed Manager Moran would take him off the job even if the great Michael J. Doolan walked into the park and asked for his old job back.

Herb Murphy failed to make good with Portland, and was sent to the Northwestern League, where he has been a star. Reed went over to the Brooklyn Federals, but the evidence goes to his not being at liberty to sign was so strong that he was given his walking papers. Reed then consented to go to Portland. He made the long trip from Atlanta to Portland at the expense of the Portland club. A couple of games convinced the Portland management that Reed would not do, and he was released.

Therefore, all that Portland has to show for the deal is a sum of money, while the Phillies have Bancroft, and they wouldn't part with him for ten times what they gave to get Dave.

CARDS HUGGINS' PENNANT CHOICE

"It's some race, the tightest on record in the National League, so far as the chances of the entire field are concerned, and I confidently believe the Cardinals are going to come through and give deserving St. Louis the first pennant it has had since the days of Charley Comiskey and they were way back in the '80s." So stated Miller Huggins, their rainy little boss of the St. Louis club today.

"We have now entertained all seven of our rivals and also met them on their own grounds. I don't figure that any of them have anything on us. This is the year the fortunes of war are going to count harder than ever before. If we get the 'breaks' we will wine out sure.

"My club is a strong one, clear around. The players are fighting as hard as any bunch in the old league. We are getting our share of good pitching and am positive we are going to be a contender the entire route, and if we are beaten out the margin will be a slight one."

Huggins gives the Braves a chance to get up, but states that he does not expect to see the firm of Stallings & Evers duplicate its great success of a year ago. "Johnny's enforced absence for over two months was fatal to the Braves. Leastwise, that's my belief," was Huggins' parting shot.

Toronto Gets Draw with Jersey Outfit

JERSEY CITY, July 12.—After winning seven straight games Jersey City dropped the opening contest to Toronto, 6 to 5. "Dick" Crutcher, the former Brave, was found in the pitches. The locals won the second contest, 4 to 3.

HUB PERDUE WILL PITCH ONE GAME

By A. H. G. MITCHELL.

If anyone wants to see old friend Hub (Squash) Perdue pitch again before it is too late, the time to see him is this afternoon. Hub is almost sure to show us what he's got in one of the games of the double-header at Fenway Park.

It will be the last appearance here for some time of the slow-moving Cardinals of St. Louis. They are not exactly slow on offence, but they are woefully slow in the field—that is, they take up a lot of time.

George Tyler will pitch one of the games for the Stallings crew. George is in pretty good form these days, and if the Braves can only do a little hitting, the fans may have the pleasure of seeing Hub chased to the dug-out—if he pitches against George.

The Braves have a slight margin on the Cards, having won two of the three games played so far.

But as far as the Braves are concerned it is easy to see that all they need is the proper kind of hitting to fill them full of the same spirit they possessed last year—the spirit that won the championship for them.

CHARLEY WHITE MEETS SAYLOR AT ATLAS

By JACK CONWAY.

CHARLEY WHITE will place his famous left hook on exhibition at the Atlas A. A. tomorrow night. The Chicago ring star is booked to clash with "Young" Saylor of Indianapolis in a twelve-round frolic. The tussle will not go the full distance if White is able to land a couple of solid left hooks, but Saylor informs us that he has not any intention of allowing White to take pot shots at his grand old jaw.

White has already shown in this city three times. He knocked out Eddie Murphy, Freddy Yelle and Charley Thomas. Murphy went seven rounds with White and gave a good account of himself while the contest lasted. Low weight weakened the South Boston boxer. He would probably have made a better showing against White than he did if he had not been forced to reduce to 134 pounds for the match.

SAYLOR is the best lightweight that White has met in this city. The Hoosier lad has clashed with Freddy Welsh, Willie Ritchie, Joe Mandot, Harry Baldwin, Battling Nelson, Jack Britton, and many other prominent glove men. He has made things mighty interesting for the best of them. He is the kind of fighter who will give White a real test. He knows the fine points of the glove game, is a clever in-fighter and is also able to land a hard punch.

WHITE is confident he will win from Saylor. In discussing the coming tussle and his chances against Freddy Welsh in a twenty-round skirmish the Chicago youth said:

"I realize that Saylor has met some classy boxers. They fell me he gave Freddy Welsh one of the hardest nights of his career in Canada a little over a year ago. Welsh was awarded the decision on a foul, but Saylor contends that he knocked out the Welshman with a blow to the pit of his stomach. Saylor will probably give me a rugged whirl, but if I score with one solid left hook the contest will have an abrupt ending.

"AFTER I get through with my bout with Saylor, I will again start on the trail of Freddy Welsh. Welsh is a clever boxer, but I am sure that I possess enough ability to dispose of him.

"I will knock Welsh out with a left hook to the jaw. And you may expect the finish around the fifteenth round. I do not think there is a man living who could put elusive Freddy away within the ten-round limit.

"Although I have won most of my recent battles in quick order—by means of that old left hook—I believe my endurance and stamina are better than ever before and for that reason I expect to carry Freddy along at a torrid pace until I am ready to drop him for the long count. Remember, about the fifteenth round.

"I have Welsh's number by this time. The first time I fought him I was somewhat handicapped by stage fright. This I frankly admit. However, in our next meeting I showed my utter disregard for his best punches and clearly outfought him. Those who saw that fight will substantiate this statement. In our last fight in New York I won by a good margin. And especially the way Freddy is going at present, I should have little trouble in ending the bout when I feel so disposed after the tenth round. It will take me all of ten rounds to wear Welsh down.

"If do not fear Freddy's feather-duster punch; I can match him in cleverness, and his ring generalship will prove of little avail to him when he collides into my old left hook."

SOUND BODIES

By JULIAN HAWTHORNE

This is the eighteenth of a series of articles on "Sound Bodies" written exclusively for the Boston AMERICAN by Julian Hawthorne. These articles will be continued in the AMERICAN on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

An Exercise That Will Round Out Your Deltoids Wonderfully.

This might be called the Emancipation Exercise, because when sculptors wish to indicate by the pose of a statue that the person or condition which it represents has been freed from some tyranny or imposition they generally design the figure in this attitude.

Stand erect, with arms at the sides, chest up and expanded; and every part of your body taut. Keep the chin lifted throughout, as if you were a disdainful person. Turn the palms of the hands outward.

LIft up the arms slowly, right and left; in the plane of the body, till the palms of the hands meet above the head. That is the general idea.

But when you come to put it into practice, it grows upon you! You are emancipated—you swell with exultation! Dilate that chest until every rib arches out like these of an umbrella opened. Get an ascension movement from the loins upward, as the arms go up, and resolve not to stop short of the ceiling, though all the while your feet are to stand solid on the floor. During the early stages of the movement, until the arms get above the level of the shoulders, you are lifting, with both hands, an enormous weight, which is exerting itself to the utmost to keep your arms from getting up. This weight, of course, is nothing else than that old antagonist of yours, gravitation, which, like the angel that wrestled with Jacob, increases your strength while opposing your efforts to overcome it.

But after your arms have passed the shoulder-level, the new impulse comes into play, which is much the same as that which constitutes the first exercise of this serie—the endeavor to shove your shoulder-joints loose, and to separate your abdomen from your legs. As you first stage brings out the power of the deltoids, so this brings tension on the two great muscles below the armpits on the sides of the body—the latissimus dorsi. And the spinal cord is drawn out to the last notch. You feel as if you must be at least a foot taller than you were a moment ago. There is, moreover, a tube called the esophagus which communicates between your throat and your stomach; its elasticity will be tested very thoroughly by the time the movement is completed.

Have you touched the ceiling yet? If so, you must have a higher room, or get out under the sky. Emancipation is progressive—it should never reach its limit. Do you see that little white cloud in the zenith? Aim at that; or at the moon, if she be overhead.

When you have gone to the highest point, whatever that be, come back again, arms always straight and rigid, till you stand once more in the posture of a German soldier in the presence of the Kaiser. Then, up again, twenty times.

But you will be under a heavier tyranny than that of the Kaiser if this exercise does not emancipate you from it. It will round out your deltoids wonderfully.

RESOLUTE BEST HANDLED BOAT

By HARRY C. THOMAS.

The five races just ended in Long Island Sound between the cup defense boats Resolute and Vanitie resulted in four wins for the Resolute and one for the Vanitie. It's the same old story of last year. A boat that is no faster than the other, being perfectly handled, having sails that fit perfectly and a crew that works perfectly. That's the answer and all the experts this side of California can argue till the cows come home about weather conditions, moving marks and few other things, but the answer can be nothing else. Preparedness and skill tells.

The Vanitie is one of the fastest modeled boats that he ever been designed for an America cup race. She has demonstrated that many times, but there is always something on board that doesn't go right.

The two boats trying to tickaold "Nat" Herreshoff for years for the sake of the sport. But old "Nat" Herreshoff is very much in the limelight at the end of every season of racing, and is always on the job when the Spring co- around and the yachts are fitting out.

Then again Colonel Vanderbilt took a boat that he was not familiar with and made it sail faster and truer than it had ever been sailed since it was built down at Nejonset.

Captain Chris Christensen, drilled last year under Charles Francis Adams, 2d, and Robert W. Emmons, 2d, aboard the Resolute, and a professional skipper of some considerable note, was take aboard the Vanitie by Colonel Vanderbilt.

Captain Christensen has been the Vanderbilt skipper for a number of years. He took the crew of the Vanitie this year and his work told, but Captain Frank Miller simply fitted into a good crew on the Resolute and with his own knowledge to aid him, found a crew that could handle sails as fast as the orders came. Skill handling counts.

When a skipper has spent an hour or so working out his own weather predictions and finds that something else is needed and needed quick, it is then that the work of the man before the mast count and the race result is the answer.

In a thirty-nine mile race at Oyster Bay on Friday, the Vanitie was obliged to quit on the last leg of the second round of the course. The Resolute sailed thirty-six miles in 3 hours, 7 minutes and 13 seconds, and in a good stiff northwest breeze that forced the yachts to use the lower sails only at the start.

The two boats will meet tomorrow over the America cup course off Sandy Hook.

Dolan "Comes Back" and Wins Shot Toss

NEW YORK, July 12—Joe Dolan, the former Dartmouth College student, showed that he had lost little of his old time form, although in retirement for some time, by tossing the 12-pound shot, for a distance of 41 feet 8 inches at the monthly games of the Union Settlement Athletic Club here. He had to be at his best, as J. F. Lynch and James Bekwerth were less than five inches behind him.

BIKERS PREPARE FOR MATCH RACE

One thousand dollars will be at stake at the Revere Cycle Track Wednesday night, when Victor Linart, the Belgian speed king, meets Leon Didier, the flying Frenchman, in a 25-mile match race behind motor pace.

It has been agreed that a mile be allowed for a change of wheels in case of puncture or any other trouble of a mechanical nature.

This event is without doubt the biggest match race ever scheduled for the beach oval. It was arranged as a result of Didier's challenge and Linart's acceptance. The men have posted $500 apiece and the winner will draw down the entire purse.

For some time past there has been constant wrangling between the two riders over their respective merits. The argument became heated when Linart licked Didier in the Golden Wheel Race several weeks ago, and shortly afterwards the Franchman came forth with a strong challenge. He made it plain that he was after Linart, in particular, but added that he would meet any rider who had $500 ready to say that he couldn't beat him.

Linart was first to bat with a answer. He telegraphed his terms from New York, where he was when the challenge was announced, and, after looking them over, Didier said they were satisfactory to him and as far as he was concerned the race was on. Manager Butler immediately signed them up.

Willard Plays Santa Claus

Sociology and prize fighting are not exactly what one would call "historic affinities," yet they form the subjects of Jess Willard's installment of his autobiography in the AMERICAN tomorrow.

Willard spent Christmas of 1913 in New York. He "pulled down a big bunch of money" as his share of a fight in Buffalo a few days previous when he knocked out "One Round Davis." He felt so good about it that he wanted to do something for the less fortunate than himself. A policeman told him where he could find plenty of them and Jess went there and played Santa Claus to them.

It isn't a pretty picture that he draws of what he saw, but it gives light on a new phase of the champion's character.

Azevedo and Grunan in Gotham Battle

NEW YORK, July 12—Joe Azevedo, the California lightweight, will arrive here today from Memphis and will finish up his work at Grupp's gymnasium for his bout with Ralph Grunan, Wednesday night, at the St. Nicholas A. C.

Azevedo first gained prominence when he defeated Owen Moran and Ad Wolgast, and lately gained a decision over Frankie Callahan after the latter had knocked out Joe Rivers in three rounds. In Grunan the Portuguese will meet one of the most finished boxers to come from the West in years.

Denver Promoters Still After Big Bout

DENVER, Col., July 12.—A twenty-round championship fight between Lightweight Champion Freddy Welsh and Charley White, strongest contenders for the title, may be fought in Denver next Fall if the negotiations of Cal Chesire, fight promotor of the National Athletic Club, are successful. Chesire asserted that he had guaranteed $17,000, but that Welsh is still reluctant. "I have not given up hope," said Chesire, "and I believe that we will eventually land the bout here."

If Chesire gets the fight it will perhaps be fought in September, during the Soil Products Exposition

International Not to Shift Clubs

NEW YORK, July 12.—Edward Barrow, president of the International League, denies with emphasis that the Jersey City and Buffalo clubs of his league will be transferred to Reading and Scranton respectively. A story to this effect came from McCullough of the Pittsburgh Feds, but Barrow characterizes it as a lie from whole cloth. The patronage in Jersey City is satisfactory, he declares, and in Buffalo Pat Donovan's Internationals have outdrawn the Feds five to one, according to Barrow.

Larry Gardner Not Flirting with Feds

DETROIT, July 12.—"Absolutely nothing to it," said Larry Gardner, the Boston third sacker, when asked about the report that the St. Louis Federals were trying to induce him to jump.

"I haven't seen any Federal League agents and don't want to see any this hot weather. I am perfectly satisfied to stay with Boston. The owners and manager have treated me finely and I wouldn't think of jumping. I could have gone to the Feds when the pickings were a lot better than they are now and I passed them up."

"THE GODDESS"

By GOUVERNEUR MORRIS and CHARLES W. GODDARD

By Gouverneur Morris and Charles W. Goddard

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

THAT so many of the strikers had had the narrowest kind of an escape from being blown to pieces by dynamite did not make their feelings for Kehr and his men any friendlier, but one thing was certain—if harm came to the girl who had risked her life to warn them of their danger it would have to come to her over their dead bodies.

Wherever she went among the strikers she was welcomed with a kind of gallant adoration. Something about her seemed, when she entered a room, to pull the rudest and the most ignorant men to their feet. Everywhere she went she preached her gospel, softened hearts and made men and women hopeful of better things. Her rostrum was the kitchen, the front steps, the shade of an elm. She was indefatigable.

No mind, however feeble, was unworthy of her greatest pains. Little children she took upon her knee and talked sense to them. And presently only those who were naturally bloodthirsty and who loved violence for its own sake talked openly of attacking the stockade. It seemed to Celestia that the strikers' demands were not unjust, and she determined to end the strike by persuading Kehr and the men to compromise to meet their demands.

Elections were coming on, and the best way to secure the labor vote was to see that labor's envelope was better filled than ever before. With a new form of government in control of the nation's most disinterested and able men there would be such a saving of national waste that doubling the pay of every laborer in the country would be but a drop in the bucket.

Tommy could not see any possible good in Celestia's form of millenium.

He felt that, innocently, of course, and with the best intention, she was trying to betray labor into the hands of capital, and he fought her doctrine tooth and nail. But what she seemed to offer was so glittering and alluring to the poor and needy that Tommy's opposing arguments found few listeners in Bitumen.

Celestia preached that government of the people, by the people, for the people had been proved a gigantic failure for two excellent reasons (1), it isn't by the people, and (2), it isn't for the people. The fathers who set down some very noble aspirations in black and white were instantly succeeded by politicians who twisted those aspirations to their own ends.

We are today a government of the people by the politicians and for the politicians. Patriotism, if it isn't dead, has gone to sleep. There are patriotic Virginians, patriotic Vermonters, too, but there are very few patriotic Americans. If the great city of New York under the threat of the enemy's guns was mulcted of a billion dollars in tribute, do you think the States far from salt water would care?

They'd make a loud noise with their newspapers, but a majority of their patriotic inhabitants, I think, would laugh in their sleeves. And this sort of thing is the fault of the politicians, who have beclouded all the clear issues.

That every city of the size of Pottawotauni should have a post-office twice too big for it is not doing anything for the people. A navy powerful enough to protect the Atlantic coast and the Pacific coast from any enemy or group of enemies would be doing something for the people.

The salaries of congressmen and senators and pensions paid without reason or justice would go far toward eradicating consumption.

As it is, the money is absolutely wasted. If some congressmen and senators are able and patriotic, 90 per cent. of them are the opposite, and render really able and patriotic legislation out of the question.

No business run as these United States are run could possibly be a success. No employe of such a business could be blamed for failing in respect for his employers or in loyalty to them. Do we want our country to be respectable and a success or don't we? Let it be run with the same American efficiency with which the Standard Oil Company has been run and nobody will be poor and no part of any city will be dirty and full of disease.

If there were no waste, there should be plenty of money for everybody, or at least of the things money can buy. Celestia was insistent on this. The Lord God gave us the apple tree. The kinder you are to an apple tree the kinder it will be to you, and the more it will give you. But maltreat it—let sog shut off air from its roots, let horses and cows chew its bark half off, let borers riddle it, San Jose scales strangle it, tent caterpillars defoliate it, and still it will for many years persist in giving you something.

Not the eagle should be the emblem of America—a mean-hearted, treacherous bird—but the noble and generous apple. Belgium, I dare say, could be kept alive for a month on the apples which rot on the ground in Westchester County every Autumn.

As we waste the apple, so we waste everything else—raw material, finished product, health and brains.

Up-to-Date Jokes

When Brown arrived at the railway station he found he had exactly twenty-four minutes to spare before his train was due to depart.

So he dashed across the road to the establishment of a tonsorial artist, seated himself in a chair and demanded a hasty shave.

But the barber was a man whom nothing could hurry—a leisurely mortal who, despite Brown's protests, applied the brush in no slow and deliberate manner that the luckless traveler found himself confronted with one or two horrible alternatives—to miss his train or take his seat in it with a face covered with soap suds.

"Do please hurry!" pleaded Brown.

But the barber paid no heed. He continued lathering.

At last Brown could stand it no longer. He seized his tormentor's hand, and "For pity's sake," he cried, "hold the brush still; I'll wriggle my head."

"And what's the matter with you?" asked the hospital surgeon to the body of simple proportions who was awaiting her turn for attention.

"My arm ain't as well as it might be, doctor," she answered, exhibiting her swollen hand.

"My good woman," said the doctor tartly, "whatever have you done to it?"

"Just a bite," came the considerate answer.

The surgeon scrutinized it more carefully.

"I can hardly make this out," he said. "This bite is too small for a horse, and too large for a dog."

"Twasn't no animile bit me!" ejaculated the patient, with a grim look. "Twas another human!"

Oh, Eve, Thy Name Is "Mystery"

By NELL BRINKLEY

Copyright, 1915, by International News Service.

"DON'T dub a girl cheerfully-custard," says the cynic—because she has a little pot fear. Girls are strange, queer things. Girls are not afraid of real horrors, big dangers and hard fighting. Girls are afraid of black bugs! But the same girl who shrinks at an angleworm in the walk after a Summer rain, stands on one unsteady foot a bit and then circles round him with shut eyes and a shudder—this same girl will face the big things of life, go into the dark with a smile to bring out with her a tiny life, and with sacrifice and tears and dreams help him to grow—and then when he is a tall chap just safe out of babyhood, with his feet firm on the highway of life, she can send this, her own blood and dreams, away perhaps to war with a smile as long as there is any one to see!

My dear little frivolous grandmother, with her whimsies and her dozen of frocks and her fans and her patches and powder, with a heart and a head that then seemed the mere sparkle on the top of a shallow brook—later went into the wilderness with a pioneer lover-husband; she lived in a tiny log house, fought the wilderness with him, cooked and wove, had ten children, wove and cut and made the black homespun suit that one son wore when he became a professor in a great college; she sent four sons to sacrifice, two to the Civil War, and one to the Mexican! And when she was eighty she was lovely, loved a throat ribbon, was afraid of a caterpillar and had the light of battle and courage behind her faded eyes!

Eve is a mystery. Eve is made of many things brought from the sea and the land and the sky and heaven! Eve is afraid of an angleworm, but she will turn and face the hardest things in life for a tender spot in her heart, and because she loves will smile under stress and heartbreak and die her life for her beauty in a pinch!

Does Beauty Handicap the Business Girl?

Ann Lisle Writes Understandingly on This Very Interesting Subject

By ANN LISLE

IS beauty a handicap to the business woman? Does a share of pulchritude interfere with a woman's efficiency in business? Does feminine loveliness get the preference when out seeking employment, or does it go about sadly looking for a job while plain, practical-looking persons get most of the available positions?

For the society girl, for the sheltered woman beauty is generally an asset either at the game of social success or in the popular pursuit of husband hunting.

But when the "poor working girl" is considered, the world is likely to talk about "the fatal gift of beauty" and to murmur something about Edna's being far too pretty for her own good, and Louise's seeming much too ornamental to be very useful.

Beauty is an asset to the business woman until she tries to make it one. We are all under the spell of beauty. Our interest goes out in response to healthy good looks IN MAN OR WOMAN. No man in search of a stenographer, no woman who is looking for a secretary is so stupidly narrow minded as to suppose that it follows as the night the day that because a girl is pretty she cannot be an efficient worker.

Beauty is not always a pink and white simper and smirk, nor is it an exotic bizarreness of form and feature. True beauty is harmony and health and intelligence and charm and normal good features in pleasant combination, and all these things are as likely to indicate a harmonious nature and a sane mind in a healthy body as they are punctuate of the presence of less pleasant characteristics.

Of course, when the pretty girl wants to be a silly fool and to stroll down to business in a costume of glazed boots, sheer silken hosiery, fluttering short skirts and elaborate blouses topped off by white fox, and with the final self-conscious silliness of a velvet hat in defiance of the seasons, she deserves criticism—and gets it.

Common sense is not a monopoly of the ugly. Nor are brains, nor business ability, nor willingness to attend to work during working hours and to extend them at necessity.

The hardest worker, the "most willing worker" in a large office which employs twenty girls and as many men is its beauty. She is an unselfconscious young person with an ambition to work up in the world and no matter how hard "she plays when she plays," no one in the office ever sees her do it.

She does not flirt nor powder her nose at anxious intervals, nor angle for invitations to lunch. She attends strictly to business and is at the same time a refreshing sight for the eyes of any one who takes a moment's respite from labor. She no more interferes with the disciplins of the office than, did a great mass of red roses she brought in one day from her home over in Jersey.

Beauty is restful and refreshing and a panacea for tired spirits. And it never will be a handicap to the woman who works—unless her idea of working is that of working—others.

Between beauty and self-conscious posing there is an unbridged river. Wholesome loveliness is as welcome in the business world as it is all through life. And tinsel, tawdry, self-adulation will always bore people and be one of the things they do not take willingly into their offices or homes or hearts.

FILENE FAVORS U.S. POLICY CHANGE

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, July 12.—Edward A. Filene, a leader of civic movements in Boston and a prominent merchant of that city, who is now at the Shelburne Hotel, Brighton Beach, speaks most interestingly regarding the war situation. He expresses his belief that it is absolutely necessary to establish a movement for the enforcement of peace—to substitute international law for international war in other words.

"Forty-four millions have previously agreed to a world court but not until now has there been sufficient pressure to make all countries agree on a constitution," he says.

"We are so close to the door of Europe and our policy of non-entanglement, which was admirable still now, must be changed. We must take our share toward keeping peace."

TODAY'S STOCK MARKET

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were uncertain at the start, and the price range was narrow. After a period of irregularity the trend became downward and a number of issues lost a point or more. News from Washington concerning the international situation was unsatisfactory. Many traders believe there will long be an unsettled feeling regarding this country's relations with Germany, and that unpleasant possibilities will retard general trade as well as speculation. Now that the German reply has been received the vital question remains unsettled. There is to be more diplomatic jockeying when the desire of the American people is to have at once a definite adjustment of difficulties.

Forenoon selling on a considerable scale was said to be in evidence this morning. The demand was greatly diminished and the supply quickly increased. Rates of exchange on London were at about the same level. War order stocks were included in the general decline. Americans were quiet in London and ranged lower.

DECLINES WERE GENERAL.

Among early declines in New York were Amalgamated 1⅜, Chino ¾, Am. Can ¾, Amanda ⅝, American Smelting 1⅛, American Can 1⅜, U. S. Steel ⅝, American Locomotive 1⅝, Baldwin 1, Bethlehem Steel, Crucible 1⅝, Goodrich ⅝, Mexican Petroleum 1⅜, Studebaker 1⅞, Westinghouse 1⅛, Ashcon ⅛, Canadian Pacific 1⅞, Lehigh Valley ⅜, N. Y. Central 1⅛, New Haven ¾, Northern Pacific 1, Reading 1⅛, Southern Pacific ⅝, St. Paul ½, Rock Island ⅛ and Union Pacific 1⅝. General Electric was up ⅛.

LOCAL MARKET QUIET.

The Boston market was very quiet and, about the only issue to show life was American Zinc. Coppers were neglected as a class. This, in fact, was true of the list in general. New Haven declined 1⅛ to 56 on one sale. Among losses were Butte & Superior ⅛, American Zinc ⅛, U. S. Smelting ⅛, Calumet & Hecla 5 and Alaska Gold ⅛. Calumet & Arizona was ⅛ higher.

In New York, where trading was fairly active on the decline, there was a slight rally at the end of about half an hour and business slackened when the tone became firmer.

BOXING FINE TRAINING FOR LIFE WORK---WILLARD

By JESS WILLARD.

(Copyright, 1915, by A. Meyrlit. All rights reserved.)

I NEVER could make up my mind whether I wanted most to whip Jack Johnson or Carl Morris. Johnson was champion, to be sure, but Morris had made me mad a few times by saying insults. When I got the chance to meet him in New York in December, 1914, I was pleased to do so.

You see, Carl and me both started out from Oklahoma about the same time. He was an engineer over at Sapulpa and I was a freighter working out of Silk City. But he got a reputation quick by beating Marvin Hart in three rounds, while I started off pretty slow.

I challenged him after I'd won my first three fights, and he sent back word that it would give me too much reputation for him to lick me. And always after that he kept calling me a "big boob" and a "lucky stiff."

I didn't think that was a good sport then, and I think it's that way yet. No one ever heard me sneer at fellows who were trying hard to win out. Even when they are direct rivals I try to play the game on square and fair.

Jim Coffey, the Dublin Giant, is challenging me all the time these days, and is telling everybody that he is sure going to whip me. That's all right. He'd be a fool if he didn't think so. I'm going to give him his chance, and I want to say that I honestly believe I'll be in fine shape and put up the battle of my life.

It took quite a lot of arranging by Tom Jones to get the fight with Morris to take place. They had been barred for a year by the New York and Pacific Boxing Commission because I hadn't fought One-Round Davis after Kearns whipped him. Jones patched up the trouble by agreeing to have me meet Davis before the Buffalo Club the week after the Morris fight in Madison Square Garden.

Morris was a red-hot favorite over me. He had just knocked out Al Reich and Fred Woods, and while he had lost on a foul to Gunboat Smith, he was winning when it happened. He was about my height and weight, and he'd fought more battles than me.

Carl had no doubt about winning. Just before the fight, Tom Jones passed by his dressing room door, and Morris yelled to him to come inside for a minute.

"Say, Tom," he said. "I'm looking for a good manager. The trouble with me is that I haven't been handled right. Now you're wasting time with that bum cow puncher. After I knock him out tonight, you come to me."

"All right," grinned Jones. "But we won't talk until you do knock him out, Carl."

Next day all the newspapers said that I had won, but they also said that it was a rotten fight. I reckon it looked that way from where the people sat. You see neither of us wasted much time in tapping.

We were trying for a knockout from the start, and that sort of fighting is always slow and cautious. That work is usually hard work, except when you come to a clinch and slug.

In the first round, I hooked my right to his chin and forced Morris to the ropes with rights and lefts to the body. The best he did was to get three blows on the back of my head.

"You ought to have fought me when I challenged you two years ago," I said to him in the clinch. "I was green then."

All the rest of the fight Morris fought slowly and carefully, keeping his jaw covered so as to guard against a knockout. I had to fall back on straight lefts, and I pumped them into his nose as fast as I could.

In the fourth round I thought I had him. As he came in to get away from my left jabs, I let loose a right uppercut. It caught him high up, however, and while it staggered Carl, he didn't go down.

In the fifth and sixth rounds I made him miss almost every blow. I wanted to show him up as slow and awkward, and I think I did. In the eighth and ninth rounds he started in to butt me with his head, but his referee warned him and the crowd hooted him.

In the tenth and last round I had him. I had him with a left to the body and a right to the jaw. But he clinched, and we couldn't pry him loose. Just as the bell rang I slipped him again with a right to the jaw, but it was high and all it did was to keep me from following up too well for me to land square on the point.

While the party gave me the victory, mighty few of them gave me any credit. You see, all "the white hopes" were looked on as jokers, and I was always been the prize joke of the lot. No matter what I did, they couldn't get out of the habit of joshing me.

Ridicule is the hardest thing in the world to put up with. If a fellow is at all sensitive, it will come close to killing him. They tell me that Professor Langley, who really invented the flying machine, had his heart broken by the joshing that the papers piled on him.

He had the idea all right, and he could fly. But he had a lot of unlucky accidents, and they just bounded him to death with their laughing and bum humor.

I suppose every fellow does look funny when he starts out with an ambition to get to the very top. When Napoleon was a hungry little lieutenant, his friends must have died laughing when he told them that he was going to be a great general.

Abraham Lincoln was a rail splitter when he decided to become President of the United States. He didn't have the time or money to go to school, but he walked twenty miles through the woods to borrow books.

He didn't have any paper to write on, so he took the back of a wooden shovel. He'd practice writing on it, and when he'd filled all of it up, he'd scrape off a thin layer and start in again. I reckon it was as much of a joke for him to think he was going to be President as it was for me to think of being champion.

President Lincoln's son went to work for a tailor when he was only seven years old because he had a mother to support. He taught himself to read by propping a primer up in front of him, but he couldn't write until he was eighteen. Then he told his friends that he meant to be President of the United States some day. I reckon he was some joke.

Theodore Roosevelt was a sickly sort of boy with weak eyes. He has had to wear glasses all his life. He made up his mind to become an athlete, and day by day he watched his eating, took exercises and refused to drink or smoke.

Men who have boxed with him say that he's mighty handy with his fists. He's a good tennis player and a crack shot. When I was out in Wyoming I heard some of the cow-punchers talking about him. They said they'd rather themselves sick when he first got on a bucking pony, but before long it was a good bronche buster.

Any fool can laugh, and the bigger the fool the bigger the laugh. Don't YOU be a fool by letting them make you quit. Stick on the job until you can make them laugh on the other side of their mouths.

Roosevelt ought to be a great lesson to every boy. It show what you can do with your body if you've got the nerve to peg away at daily exercises. I want to say that there isn't a boy, unless he's a hopeless cripple, who can't build himself up into a strong man if he'll only try.

Look what Helen Keller did. She was blind, deaf and dumb, yet she worked away at exercise for both mind and body until today she is strong and well, can write, read and talk, and is one of the most wonderful persons in the world.

I recommend boxing as the best form of exercise. It's a training for life itself as well as training for the body. Start in right, and put on more steam just as you feel ready for it.

In the first place, boxing reaches every muscle in the body. It makes him strong and it makes them quick. In the second place, boxing develops the lungs and strengthens the heart. After a boy has been at it for a while, he can fairly see his chest get wider and deeper.

A boy who wants to be a good boxer won't drink or smoke, because he knows whiskey and tobacco knock the wind and weaken the heart.

He learns to take a punch without whining or quitting. And best of all, he learns to keep his temper, for he soon finds out that you can't box when you're mad.

Boxing also does more than any other sport to develop the fighting instinct—the instinct that makes a boy go ahead in spite of hard knocks with never a thought of lying down on the job. Boxing makes a fellow thinking and quick decisions. The boxer gets quick in the mind as well as quick with his hands and feet.

I say that's good training for the business of life as well as for the body. To fight hard and to keep your temper is to play the game square, to learn how to stand punishment, and how to think quick, is pretty good preparation for a boy who expects to hold his own in the wild of business.

(Tomorrow Willard will tell how he gave a Christmas party to some children of the New York tenements.)

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

A Real Progressive Speaks

A NEUTRAL observer overheard a very interesting conversation last week at the Boston Press Club, where some active and prominent politicians were dining.

Walter Adams, H. Huestis Newton, former Mayor of Everett, and Samuel Davis, Representative, of Boston, were talking together when William E. Davenport, Progressive from Malden, came in. Mr. Davis greeted him with the remark, "I have just ventured the opinion to these gentlemen that you propose to cast your lot with the Republican party this year." Mr. Davenport replied, "I hope that you have not backed that opinion by any considerable sum." Mr. Davis answered, "I am not a betting man, but how about it anyway?" "Well," said Mr. Davenport, "if I have to choose between McCall, Cushing or Walsh, I shall certainly choose Walsh. No sincere man who has ever voted the Progressive ticket, because the Republican party had become reactionary and cast out its old Lincolnian spirit, and who believed in the principles formulated by the National Progressive party and by the State Progressives in their three successive platforms, could possibly vote for these standpat Republican candidates. On the other hand, Governor Walsh has advocated, both before election and during his term of office, practically all the reforms to which the Progressive party is committed. I hope that I can vote for my own party candidate this year. But if I cannot, then I shall vote for the man who has stood nearest to my progressive principles among those candidates whose names will appear on the ballot."

Mr. Davenport spoke like a consistent and sincere Progressive. He spoke as former Senator Burbank would have spoken had he not higher political ambitions than can be satisfied in the Progressive party. What a Progressive should do this year depends largely upon the man's point of view. If he has been a prominent Progressive, and it happens that the Republican leaders temporarily atttach an importance to his published desertion of his organization and principles, and he wishes to capitalize his temporary importance for personal ends, then, from his point of view, the repudiation of the Progressive party and the publicly HERALDED desertion is wise.

But if he joined the Progressive movement in sincere protest against the standpatism of the Republican party and honestly believes in the proclaimed principles of the Progressive party, then the LAST thing he could do would be to join the present standpat, unrepentant, unregenerate, defiant Republican organization and thus make a public confession that the whole Progressive protest against Republican standpatism is a failure and that all any standpat party need to do in the future, when there is a revolt of its progressive and decent elements, is to stand more standpat than ever, until it brings back the recalcitrants in curb bit and kicking strap, humble and negligible.

There is just one way to make the Republican party become progressive. That way is to show it that there can be no success while it remains standpat.

Sweet, Delicious English Conservatism

Please Read This from London

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

The Duke of Devonshire and others have issued a letter to the press under the heading "Unmarried Mothers"—in which they question "whether the principle of punishing the offences of mothers by neglecting and injuring their unoffending children can be reconciled with the dictates of humanity and the teachings of Christ."

This refers, as you know, to the so-called "war babies" of England.

Heroes of various kinds were gathered together to fight the Germans. They were taken from home, some married men, some bachelors, kept in camps where they were paraded up and down, and filled with patriotic ardor.

After a while it was discovered that many young women had been the victims of these heroes, and now England wonders what is to be done with the great crop of "war babies," which will run into thousands.

Considering how rapidly the Germans are killing the English, the sane thing to do would be, presumably, to bring these children up carefully and let them help to restore the population to normal.

The quotation from the statement by "the Duke of Devonshire and others" is deliciously English. These thoughtful persons are uncertain whether it would be quite reconcilable "with the dictates of Christ to punish these children in order to punish the mothers."

We should say offhand that it would not be EXACTLY in accordance with Christ's teachings to punish the children, or to punish the mothers, either.

A child has a father and a mother. And if one parent is to be punished, certainly the other parent is to be punished.

If the English feel that they must do any punishing, they might begin, we should think, with the men who have run away and abandoned the children, leaving them to starve or to any other fate, and postpone talk about punishing mothers who at least have taken care of the children and stood by them.

A queer type of Christianity asks whether it would be according to Christ's doctrine to punish children in order to punish their unhappy mothers who stick to the children and endure the viciousness of the men.

The Bible might enlighten the distinguished Duke of Devonshire and his friends who wonder whether Christ would have punished children in order to get at their mothers.

"Judge not, that ye be not judged.
"For with what judgment ye judge, ye shall be judged; and with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again."

Mosquitoes Can Be Conquered if We Will It

If They Were Gone and Forgotten Even the Watchers of Comets and the Counters of Stars Would Rejoice—Their Extermination Would Cost a Great Deal, However

By Garrett P. Serviss

WHENEVER the people will that it shall be done, and go to work themselves to do it, both mosquitoes and flies can be eliminated from the catalogue of man's enemies. Their extermination would cost a great deal of money and hard work, but it would be worth all it cost. The fly is, upon the whole, the more dangerous, but the mosquito is the more maddening. Dr. Doty has just been telling the public some of the reasons why this bloodthirsty terror of the atmosphere has not already been driven from human neighborhoods.

It is all summed up in the two words, ignorance and indifference. Even those who live in mosquito-infested regions, where the breeding places of the insects are well known, or easily found, prefer to choke their bedroom windows with close-meshed nets and screens, and to pass a few uneasy half-hours on their besieged porches, slapping and objurgating their invisible, horn-blowing and lance-bearing tormentors, rather than spend the money necessary to seek out and eradicate the sources of the evil.

Jersey Almost Impassable

Where I have lived during the past year, in New Jersey, there is a string of swamps at no great distance from the habitable sections, and out of these swamps hordes of mosquitoes issue every Spring, Summer and Autumn, making the lower grounds, at twilight and night, and even by daylight, in some places, almost impassable for any less sensitive-skinned vertebrate than a rhinoceros.

There is a valley within half a mile of my house, with a road running through it, which is, at times, so infested with mosquitoes that a walk there after sundown recalls the experiences of Bunyan's Christian in the "Valley of the Shadow of Death," where his ears were assailed amid the darkness by the infernal voices of demons, only these Jersey demons use spikes as well as tongues.

These mosquitoes, bred in the swamps, which have lain there ever since the Palisades were formed, rise to the higher grounds, invade the beautiful, green, tree-shaded ridges, which seem to have been designed by nature as agreeable dwelling places for intellectual beings and render outdoor life at the pleasantest hours of the day nearly insupportable. You cannot stroll through your garden and admire your plants and flowers at peace. You cannot pull up a few radishes without becoming covered with poisoned bites on the back of your neck and ears and under the edges of your cuffs and through your stockings if you wear low shoes. You cannot go out under the starry dome of night and absorb the wonder of the gleaming universe on account of the intolerable infliction to which you are subjected. When there was a new comet visible last Autumn my forehead, cheeks and wrists looked as if the "skiey portent" had smitten me with blisters, but it was the mosquitoes that did it!

Authorities Are Inactive

And yet, virtually nothing has been done to get rid of the bogs, which are the cradles of the torturers. In this case ignorance cannot be pleaded, for it is well understood where the source of the trouble lies. But it would cost money to drain and fill up so many swamps and clear off so much foul land! Ay, there's the rub. And it's the rub not only in the neighborhood to which I refer, but in hundreds of others.

Property owners are discontented over the prices that they can get for their land, and are very solicitous that nothing shall be said about mosquitoes. They know very well that if it could be truly stated that the mosquitoes had been eradicated people would flock in eagerly to build homes in so desirable a region. But they pinch the dollars, prevaricate about the mosquitoes and—repaint the old signboards!

Dr. Doty reminds us that there are two distinct breeds of mosquitoes in the United States, namely, the "striped-legged mosquito" and the "inland mosquito." The former breeds in fresh water, includes the two dangerous varieties, the Stegomyia, or yellow fever mosquito, and the Anopheles, or malaria mosquito.

"Contrary to the general belief," says Dr. Doty, "mosquitoes, as a rule, do not breed in large bodies of water, but prefer small pools, where there is an abundance of vegetation and nourishment, and where they may be quiet. Mosquitoes are essentially vegetarians, notwithstanding that the females, the only ones which bite, subsist largely on blood."

Only the Female Bites

It is not likely that our natural gallantry to ladies will make us more indulgent to the mosquito because science has discovered that it is only the female that bites!

To depend upon birds, frogs, fishes, bats and other natural enemies of the mosquito to rid us of the pest is, we are assured, a vain hope. To hide ourselves behind screens and abandon the outdoor world in the evening to the enemy is only a pusillanimous makeshift. To pour petroleum on breeding places is merely a temporary expedient. The one final, effective, victorious measure is to drain and fill up all the bogs, swamps and pools, wherein the wriggling larvae that love such "quiet" places flourish, not forgetting that mosquitoes breed in old rain barrels, cisterns, drain-pipes, gutters and the still waters of grassy rills.

—More Truth Than Poetry—

By James J. Montague

The Nut Menders

WHEN Uncle Ezekiel breezed into my flat
And said that he just had presented
All the cash he had got to the Ahkoond of Swat,
I judged that he must b e demented.
So, calling a number of alienists in,
My burning emotion I hid,
And asked them to find if the old fellow's mind
Had possibly started to skid.

THE first of the bunch found a pair of brass tongs
On the hearth near at hand, which he seized,
And proceeded to knock on my relative's block
Till the patient was plainly displeased.
Then he stood him erect o n one foot on the floor
And gave him a couple of whirls;
"He's dippy," he said, "it's the life he has led;
You might as well call in the squirrels."

THE second pried open the aged man's jaws
With a slim silver spear that he had,
And I thought from a scowl and a guttural growl
That the victim must surely be mad.
But when he had finished the learned M. D.
Turned 'round upon me to explain:
"Though it's true he can't bite a fried herring just right,
He is otherwise perfectly sane."

THE rest of the crowd made the same sort of tests,
They roughed the old subject a lot,
And half of them said he had cogs in his head
And half of them swor e he had not.
As to whether my uncle is dotty or not
I still am exceedingly hazy,
But I just learned today what a bill I must pay—
And now I'M the one that is crazy!

Women of United States Are Independent, But Modest

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

OH, not for the great departed,
Who formed our country's laws,
And not for the bravest-hearted
Who died in freedom's cause,
And not for some living hero
To whom all bend the knee,
My muse would raise her song of praise—
But for the man to be.

For out of the strife which woman
Is passing through today
A man that is more than human
Shall yet be born, I say.
A man in whose pure spirit
No dross of self will lurk;
A man who is strong to cope with wrong,
A man who is proud to work.

A man with hope undaunted,
A man with godlike power,
Shall come when he most is wanted,
Shall come at the needed hour.
He shall silence the din and clamor
Of clan disputing with clan,
And toll's long fight with purse-proud might
Shall triumph through this man.

I know he is coming, coming,
To help to guide, to save,
Though I hear no martial drumming
And see no flags that wave.
But the great soul travail of woman,
And the bold free thought unfurled,
Are heralds that say he is on the way—
The coming man of the world.

Mourn not for vanished ages
With their great heroic men,
Who dwell in history's pages
And live in the poet's pen.
For the grandest times are before us,
And the world is yet to see
The noblest worth of this old earth
In the men that are to be.

The fact that young women in high social positions have brought themselves into unpleasant notoriety has caused a critical man to declare that woman's virtue is no longer highly praised. He says: "She casts aside the rules and laws of past centuries to enjoy herself as she sees fit, assuming the same liberties of men, confident the world will soon accept the new conditions as they have accepted all advantages and progress in the past."

He proceeds to say that woman is deteriorating and that her moral position is much lower as well as her ideals and standards, than those of past centuries. But he is mistaken. Let him look back to the days of Catherine de Medici and her "Flying Squadron." It was composed of nearly half a hundred young women, all of "noble" birth, all beautiful, all educated and bright. Their work was to captivate and attract the men who were political powers in the land, to become their confidantes, and to report their plans and projects to Catherine de Medici.

These young women were the social leaders of their world, and it was a large world.

Such an assemblage of women, whose intrigues with men of renown were matters of public comment, would not be tolerated in any society or land today. Woman places a far higher value upon her name than she did in past centuries.

In America we are not as austere as were our Puritan ancestors, but austerity is not a synonym for morality, nor liberality for vice.

Abroad, the unchaperoned young girl is declasse, but in America no man suspects her of being other than her own sweet, brave, true self merely because she goes about her business alone.

The American girl's independence in teaching the Old World a long-needed lesson. Until her advent the prevailing idea of woman's virtue seemed to be that it was like a mouse—liable to run away unless caged.

The moment woman was allowed any freedom she was expected to fling her morals broadcast.

The American girl carries her morals with her through all sorts of experiences, and they are in excellent condition when she has finished a tour of the world or completed her education for a profession, or done any one or all of the unusual things which she alone can do.

While it is true that we have striking and shocking examples now and then of women of good birth, social position and opportunities of culture, who fling morality to the winds and seek to exhibit a new code of morals, this does not apply to the typical woman of the day. She is not bringing herself down to man's level of immorality. She is, instead, slowly but surely bringing him up to her own standard.

The gay Lothario, the avowedly immoral man, has no longer the vogue among good women which he had once upon a time. He is shunned by the sensible mothers of the land, and he is unpopular even in clubs of worthwhile men.

Where men used to boast of their vices they now attempt to conceal them, and that is a sign of moral growth on the part of the man and of a higher social code.

Mothers' clubs are scattered all over our land, and they are doing a vast amount of good. Perhaps in the immediate present this good may not be so discernible, but it will surely make itself felt in the next generation.

The ignorance of womankind in the matters pertaining to home, health and comfort has kept the world and the race handicapped for centuries. The formation of women's clubs has been a great factor in the progress and the rise of humanity toward a higher goal.

In-Shoots

A man cannot gain the reputation of being a successful horse trader and retain all of the innocence of his youth.

Red tape is the greatest of all time killers.

When we kick ourselves we seldom administer the deserved punishment.

Some persons are habitually so mean that their few good qualities are never remembered.

A wife can occasionally carry the entire brain stock of the family, and still not make much fuss about it.

Nothing ventured and the promoter starves.
